100-second festival

create, watch and share videos and film that are 100 seconds or less

The 100-Seconds is a celebration of culture through the language of motion media and the common constraint of 100 seconds. It is a unique yet accessible global dialogue. Launched in 2005, the festival embraces authentic, raw, creative voices from producers of all skill levels and backgrounds. People are invited to submit works of film, video, animation or computer art that are 100 seconds in duration and attend locally curated exhibitions that fuse regional voices to an international conversation.
